

cookie law

cookies!

What are they?

Cookies are small files that get put on your computer by websites as you surf them. These cookies can store lots of information which can have privacy implications. We like to think all the cookies used on this site are fairly innocuous but that's for you to judge.

Anonymous tracking software

We use Google Analytics (just like virtually everybody else) a service provided by Google. They gather anonymous data of how people are using this site and then provide us with visitor statistics, details of page views etc. If you are anti-Google you can opt-out of being tracked by Google Analytics at <http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout> (we'd prefer you didn't though as this data is seriously helpful to us in improving our website).

Our website widgets

There are so many tools/widgets available to add to your website that it is almost impossible to have a website without them. Unfortunately, some of these widgets come with cookies. The few widgets we have added to our website are only intended to make the whole experience of visiting the website more enjoyable. We have performed a cookie audit which tells us what cookies end up on your computer.

Don't want any cookies ever?

While it is possible to design a cookie free website we feel this would take away the usability of the site making your experience less than enjoyable. Unfortunately, if you are really anti-cookie then there is no option except to not use our site. You can remove any cookies we have already put on your machine within your browser settings – pressing Ctrl+Shift+Delete may work in many cases. We will be sorry to see you go!

For more information on Cookies please visit: www.allaboutcookies.org